VEHICLE ELECTRONICS

This catalogue is intended for vehicles/engines officially imported or manufactured in the UK and supersedes all previous versions, which should be disposed of. Whilst every care is taken in compiling these lists of applications, they are given for general guidance only, and do not constitute any contractual term, representation, or warranty and as such Niterra UK Ltd. do not accept any responsibility in respect of any claim whatsoever and howsoever caused arising from the publication of this catalogue.

NGK and NTK products distributed by Niterra UK Ltd are designed solely for use in automotive, motorcycle, marine, horticultural, agricultural, commercial, industrial, and stationary engines. They should not be used in any airborne engines. Niterra goods destined for any aviation use are likely to differ in specification and should be purchased through the OES parts supplier for the engine.

Resistor spark plugs should always be used where they are recommended by the manufacturer. The use of non-resistor plugs could, in some cases, result in interference with and/or damage to electronic components.

Specifications subject to change without notice.

NGK and NTK products listed in these application guides do not apply to racing or modified engines, except where explicitly stated.

EXHAUST PRESSURE SENSOR TECHNICAL INFORMATION

WHAT IS AN EPS?

An EPS is an Exhaust Pressure Sensor responsible for providing the vehicle control system with information on exhaust pressure and the DPF (Diesel Particulate Filter) level of current fill. Sometimes used in conjunction with a GPF (Gasoline Particulate Filter) on petrol vehicles.

THERE ARE THREE TYPES OF EPS;

Differential pressure sensors;

Commonly identified by two input pipes, and are used to compare the pressure pre and post of the particulate filter, or the EGR valve to ensure correct operation. Changes in pressure can be used to identify vehicle emission systems operating issues.

Absolute pressure sensors;

Commonly identified by a single input pipe. This type monitors the absolute exhaust pressure and can provide early warning should the back pressure become too high, offering a level of component protection to items such as the turbocharger, DPFs, catalytic converters and EGR valves.

High pressure sensors;

Identified by a metal body, threaded into a boss for its input. This type provides a similar role to the absolute variant, just for much higher pressures and direct heat environments (i.e. close contact with turbocharger).

SYMPTOMS WHEN MALFUNCTIONS OCCUR

- Performance losses occur because the sensor does not detect the saturation level of the particulate filter
- The regeneration of the particulate filter does not begin
- The particle indicator lights up
- Higher level of pollution
- Unnecessary regeneration of the filter and the resulting reduction in the lifespan of the DPF

DIAGNOSIS (TROUBLE CODES)

Faults related to exhaust pressure sensors are often indicated by specific fault codes in the on-board diagnostic (OBD) system. These codes are part of the OBD-II standard and usually start with 'P'. Here are some common fault codes associated with exhaust pressure sensors:

Common EPS error codes
1	P0471	Exhaust Pressure Sensor A Circuit Range/Performance • Cause: defective sensor, sensor pipe blockage, EGR or intake air leakage • Solution: check the sensor, feed pipe and EGR, air intake, replace sensor if necessary	5	P2458 Diesel Particulate Filter (DPF) Regeneration Duration is too long • Cause: Incorrect additive, sensor circuit defective • Solution: check sensor, ensure correct additive
2	P2002/3	The efficiency of the diesel particulate filter (DPF) is below the limit value • Cause: Too frequent short trips, air leakage, defective DPF • Solution: DPF forced regen, check for air leakage, replace DPF if necessary, advise customer of driving habits	6	P2459 Diesel Particulate Filter (DPF) Regeneration Frequency issue • Cause: Defective sensor, defective/blocked DPF • Solution: check sensor, replace DPF if necessary
3	P242F	Diesel Particulate Filter (DPF) restriction due to excessive ash accumulation • Cause: sensor defective, sensor pipe blockage, inefficient filter regeneration • Solution: check the sensor, feed pipe, replace sensor if necessary	7	P2463 Excessive soot accumulation in the Diesel Particulate Filter (DPF) • Cause: Insufficient regeneration, incorrect additive, defective sensor • Solution: check sensor, ensure correct additive, replace DPF if necessary
4	P2455	Diesel Particulate Filter (DPF) Pressure Sensor "A" Circuit High • Cause: exhaust leakage, blocked pressure pipes, regen not possible, additive tank empty, sensor defective • Solution: check the sensor, pressure pipes, additive tank
